Dear Hiring Manager:

I am thrilled to present this cover letter as an introduction, providing insights into my goals, work ethic, and character.

With over 29 years of experience as a senior web designer, webmaster, and web developer, I bring a diverse skill set to the field of web design, development, and support. Throughout my career, I have demonstrated a strong sense of ownership over projects and excel in cultivating collaborative relationships with team members and stakeholders.

My expertise spans all aspects of web design projects, from domain creation to hosting, design staging, and publication. I am well-versed in all phases of production, including hosting and experience with six different CMS platforms, as well as theme and plugin design.

Following the recent acquisition of my previous employer, EVO Payments, by Global Payments, a fully staffed organization with professionals who share similar roles and responsibilities, I am seeking a full-time opportunity.

Working from my home office, I am equipped with two workstations supported by Alien 51 computers, each featuring four 24" monitors, along with three external hard drives and three network printers.

I believe that my knowledge and experience have equipped me to provide valuable services to organizations seeking team players capable of supporting strategic initiatives in both long-term and contract consultant roles. I am committed to ongoing education in the technology industry, recognizing its essential role in staying ahead of future developments.

If you are seeking a dedicated professional who stays informed about industry trends, communicates effectively, and is fully committed to achieving success, I encourage you to consider my candidacy.

I am available for an initial discussion to explore potential opportunities further and would be happy to address any questions you may have. Thank you for considering my application and for your interest in my resume. You can review my work examples and portfolio on my Online Resume site at <https://dsteinberger.com>, as well as on my custom web design site at <https://dsteinberger.com/portfolio-gallery/> or, directly from my web design company: <https://www.bluediamondwebs.com>. Additionally, I offer web design and support products at my online hosting company located at: <https://www.bluediamondwebservices.com> .

I regularly update my portfolio with recent web designs and continue my education through certification programs to stay up-to-date with industry trends.
